Risk Map 2027

FRANCE
After the October 2026 riots, the spring 2027 presidential race could fuel further unrest. With Macron stepping down and polarization deepening, strikes and protests may disrupt transportation and city centers.

ECUADOR
With Latin America's highest homicide rate, Ecuador could see more car bombings and extortion as gangs fight over cocaine routes; Guayaquil remains the most exposed despite militarized crackdowns.

KENYA
The August 2027 election is a key flashpoint; close contests, anger over the cost of living, and distrust of the electoral commission raise the risk of violent protests in Nairobi and other urban centers.

TAIWAN
2027 is China's reported military readiness deadline for Taiwan. An invasion remains unlikely, but snap drills, blockade rehearsals, and cyberattacks could disrupt flights, shipping, and chip supply chains with little warning.

UNITED ARAB EMIRATES
Iran's 2026 strikes showed that Gulf hubs are within reach; with the conflict unresolved, 2027 could bring renewed airspace closures in Dubai and Abu Dhabi, even as business largely continues.
